

ABSTRACT

This invention allows a grid structure with simple interfaces, where grid members generally can be installed and uninstalled by hand from below. Using under decks, with the addition of panels and panel holding means, and the further addition of a gutter and downspout provides an effective under-deck water shedding system.